From the Paris Letter, dated Aug. 29.

Paris, August 29.

THIS advised from the Camp before Barcelona the 7th, that the 3d at Night 400 of the Besieged made a Sally to attempt to surprize and carry off the French Miners who were at Work under the Bastion of the New Gate, but they were repulsed by our Grenadiers, who killed or took 70 of them. The 5th at Night they made another Sally with 1000 Men, and surprized a Redoubt in which were 30 Soldiers, of whom 18 were killed; but our Grenadiers running thither, they were repulsed again with no more Loss on our Side than of two Men killed. In the Mean while our Workmen were employed in removing forward Part of the Batteries, of which 5 began the 6th to play from a very small Distance on the two Bastions and the Body of the Place. That Day M. de Puy Vauban was wounded in the Breast, but without Danger, no Fracture being made. The Besieged had caused Bills to be dispersed in the open Country, to invite the People to give them Assistance in their dangerous Circumstances, and for that End to repair to Armingol one of their Leaders, who kept the Field with a Body of Men. The Inhabitants of some Places went to joyn him towards Ostalric, but many others sent the Bills of the Barceloners with some Directions which they had received from Armingol to our Generals. The Barceloners sent out an Irish Officer whom they had taken Prisoner, to ask Leave to send four Vessels out of the Port without being stopped or searched; but their Request was refused, and the Officer (who had bound himself by Oath to return into the Place) was detained. Dispositions were made for springing the Mines the 12th, and for giving the Assault at the same time to endeavour to fix Lodgments on the Breach, there to erect Batteries for ruining the Intrenchments which the Besieged have made behind. Letters of the 13th tell us the Assault was given that Day, but the Besiegers were repulsed, not being able to lodge themselves in the Breach which was 50 Toises wide, for want of having a sufficient Number of Workmen at Hand in Time; a great Number of Men on both Sides fell in this Action, even some Officers of Distinction. The Court sets out to Day for Fontainebleau.

Dublin, Aug. 17. 'This Afternoon the 'Lords Juſtices of this Kingdom having ſum-'moned the nominal Lord Mayor of this 'City and the Aldermen in Town, propoſed 'to them to proceed forthwith to the E-'lection of a Mayor and Sheriffs for the re-'maining part of the Year till Michaelmas 'next: But the Mayor declined proceeding 'to a Choice in Conjunction with the Al-'dermen: Whereupon the Aldermen, after 'the nominal Lord Mayor had refuſed 'either to proceed to an immediate Choice 'or to name a time when he would go up-'on the Election, went into a Choice with-'out him, which by a Majority fell upon 'Alderman Page for Lord Mayor for the 'remaining Term, and on Mr. Somervill a 'Merchant of this City for Sheriff, with 'Mr. Crowder who was formerly elected by 'the Aldermen and approved by the Go-'vernment.
